

1 men, in a refrigerator or a wind tunnel.

2 Now, the problem here, usually I find you very per-3 suasive, but even if you have -- but my question here is 4 you have gone only half-way, and unless the very 5 intelligent selected individuals have the time to deliberate, 6 you are not going to accomplish your purpose. I think to 7 really accomplish your purpose you have got to enter 8 the element of time, and sufficient time, and of 9 course, all those other things that you talk about.

10 DELEGATE JAMES: On the element of time I can 11 say this: There are two ways to look at time. One, of 12 course, is the legislator's time generally, and I think 13 that a well-paid legislator who devotes substantially all 14 of his time to representing the people gives you a much 15 better representation than a multiplicity of people who 16 are part-timers. That is one element of time.

17 The other element of time is the time on the 18 floor, and because of the limitations of time, we 19 have large bodies, and there simply has to be a limitation
20 of debate, and to the extent you limit debate you really 21 do not have the free debating type of organization that
